TRAVESÍA CUATRO opens "Conversations II", the second group show of this serie, where the gallery artists show their works in relation with other international artists.

In 2006, TRAVESÍA CUATRO started a new exhibition project searching for new ways to show the gallery artists' work. This project started with "Conversations" exhibition, that now leads to "Conversations II". Following the concept of the former, the gallery asked six of his artists to think on an artistic couple with whom they would like to exhibit. After getting in touch with these artists, the gallery sent them the proposal by creating a relation between their works. Both artists started a relation where they discussed and shared ideas about which of their works would fit better in a direct dialogue. The final result of these dialogues between artists doesn't lead to a group show with a common theme, but a group of artist couples, where the works complement, face or discuss together on different aspects that the spectators will discover, either formally, aesthetically or conceptually. The exhibition space will be organized by the conversations between paired works, where the display of each couple will be independent from the others and only in the global conception of the show all the conversations will find an unity. The couples of artists are the following:

John Isaacs – Damien Hirst
José Dávila – Pedro Cabrita Reis
Gonzalo Lebrija – John Baldessari
Máximo González – Jim Hodges
Dustin Yellin – Ernesto Caivano
Marco Rountree – Yuri Masnyj

"Conversations II" aims to show the work of these artists in a wider vision, at the time that offers the visitors a new perception of the artistic programe of the gallery.
